

REMORSE CAUSES PLEASANT PRAIRIE BOY TO END LIFE

Injuries to Cousin and Despondency Lead Ray Gleason to Suicide

His health and remorse over injuries received by his cousin in an auto crash for which he was responsible are believed to have been the motive which caused Ray Gleason of Pleasant Prairie to take his life at Paddock's Lake last Sunday morning.

Gleason, with a party of friends, was a guest at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reed at Paddock's Lake. When the party broke up they found it necessary to drive the car in which Gleason, his cousin, Miss Werve, and some of the others were to return to Kenosha, up a slippery incline in order to get it onto the road. Gleason offered to drive it out and attempted to do so, with Miss Werve and another member of the party, Miss Knobel, in the front seat with him.

On the third attempt the car plunged forward too swiftly, careened sideways and hit a stump hidden in the grass. The windshield was broken and Miss Werve was badly cut about the face.

Gleason Not Missed at First. In the excitement that followed, someone heard young Gleason say, "My God, what have I done now?" and saw him running through the trees to the lake. The crowd climbed into another car with Miss Werve and rushed her to the office of Dr. Fletcher at Salem. After the girl's wounds were treated, the group returned to the cottage. It was not till then that the absence of Gleason aroused suspicion.

A search ensued in which Gleason was found lying on the pier, with a loaded cartridge belt across his knee a long barrel target pistol sticking in the mud beside the pier, and two empty shells on the ground nearby.

Does Not Regain Consciousness. The man was breathing but unconscious. Harold Vandenberg, who discovered him, called for help and the wounded man was carried to the cottage. Drs. Fletcher and A. J. Lowe were summoned and the boy's parents were sent for. He never regained consciousness.

Gleason had been despondent for some time over an ailment in one of his ankles. This had recently been diagnosed as tuberculosis. The pain and interference from the member had become worse of late, he is said to have told his friends. Added to this melancholic frame of mind was the remorse over wrecking the Tourtelotte machine and the possible life disfigurement of Miss Werve. It was inferred that the strain had unnerved him and that in desperation he fled to the loneliness of the little boat mooring and ended his life.

Getting "All Bad Breaks"

Young Gleason had been working in the office of the Allen-A company with his brother, Clifford. However, he did not show up at the office Thursday, Friday and Saturday preceding his death. He told his friend Vandenberg that he was "getting all the bad breaks." This statement is believed to have followed the medical diagnosis of his ailment and the probable feeling that he was incurable and due for a life of invalidism.

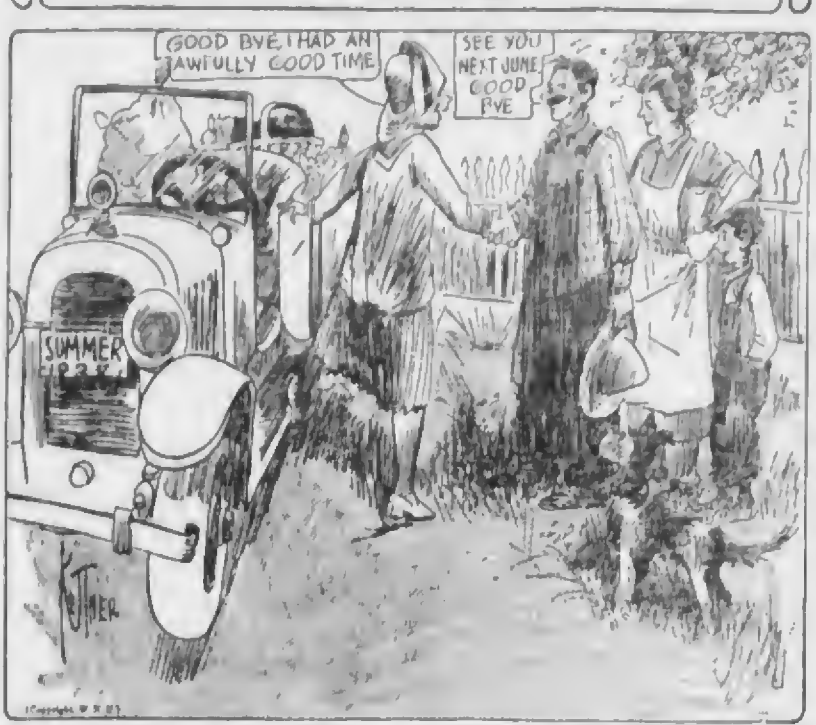

Gleason attended the public schools of Pleasant Prairie and later graduated from the College of Commerce. He lived at home with his parents and went to and from work daily in a small coupe which he owned. Friends declared that he always carried the pistol with which it is thought he shot himself. It usually was kept in the back seat of his machine.

Funeral services for Gleason were conducted Wednesday morning from St. Thomas' church. Interment was at St. James' cemetery at Kenosha.

Some of the best known stock owners who are entered to show at this date are Sheep—Walter Clausen, Pleasant Prairie; Allendale School—Lake Villa; John Collison—Richmond; Hogs—Rhodesdale, from Brighton; Sabin—Pleasant Prairie; Dexter McDowse—Elkhorn; Herman Lois—Camp Lake; Horses—Cattle—Douglas Brown, Racine; George Cook & Sons, Racine; W. Unusual entertainment is being offered the Fair crowds this year. Those who wish may take advantage of the Waco plane that is to do stunt flying and carry passengers for three days. Alexander Bulhoff of Milwaukee will be the pilot.

The Three Red Caps, a free attraction appearing afternoon and evening promises to be very good; while Sunny Jim, the Rube, is due to be on the grounds four hours afternoon and evening.

Those who wish to contend for prizes may enter the races and eating contests held daily or enter the Horse Shoe Pitching contest. A cow calling contest to be staged two days of the Fair, the winner to be chosen from the ten best on the second day, is causing much comment. The winner is to enter the National contest over the radio in Chicago.

The children have an added attraction just for themselves this year in a Pony ring. The merry-go-round will be there as usual.

But the real Fair will be the excellent marvelous exhibits that have

SIX DEATHS TOLL OF WEEK'S ACCIDENTS IN LAKE COUNTY

Carelessness Adds to List of Railroad Fatalities

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Manning of Chicago were killed in a double tragedy at Libertyville, Monday morning when the machine in which they were riding was struck by an E. J. & E. freight train three miles south of that place. The crossing is a little used one, and it is supposed that knowledge of that fact occasioned carelessness which resulted in the accident.

Several other accidents occurred over the week end. The toll in dead was six with several others injured. The casualties included seven year old Frank Gonowski of North Chicago who ran directly into a North Shore train, Frederick Mole, who was employed as a flagman by the North Shore and whose body was found, badly mangled, on the elevated tracks near Niles Center.

Lawrence T. Murdock, a sailor at Great Lakes Station, a suicide who threw himself in front of the oncoming Northwestern railroad train; and Verne Webster of Rushville, Illinois who lost a race with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train, at Grayslake complete the list.

Coroner John L. Taylor of Libertyville stated that he had had more fatalities to deal with on Saturday, Sunday and Monday of this week than he usually encounters in a month.

BURGLARS GET $1,000 LOOT AT OETTING HOME

Thieves Get Haul In Clothing, Jewelry and Money; No Clue Thus Far

Thieves ransacked the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Oetting Tuesday evening, making away with money and clothing valued at about $1,000. Mr. and Mrs. Oetting were spending the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oetting and returned about nine thirty o'clock to find evidences of the theft.

Mr. and Mrs. Oetting had as their guest, Miss Roth, of Chicago, who had just returned from Europe and had with her many things of value brought from abroad, most of which the burglars stole. Besides these, five suits of men's clothing, two valuable suitcases, $45 in money, nearly all of Mrs. Oetting's clothing, and a considerable amount of jewelry were taken. The office of the sheriff was notified at once, but thus far no clue to the identity of the robbers has been found.

Fire Sunday Night Demolishes Plant of No. Chicago Journal

Fire, believed to have started from defective electric wiring, demolished the plant of the North Chicago Journal at 13 Broadway, North Chicago last Sunday morning.

The loss to Joseph Jadrlich, owner and editor of the paper, was estimated at $4,000. The fire was discovered by Joe Kroll, owner of the building who together with his family lived above the newspaper office. Prompt work on the part of the fire department prevented the fire from spreading to the upper story although the entire first floor was in flames.

The North Chicago Journal is being printed this week in the Antioch News office. Theo Kunda and Ralph Krohn, formerly of the News staff, and now of the North Chicago Journal are here to assist in the work.

NEWS NOTES OF NEARBY TOWNS

Contractors for improvements amounting to $140, 532.50 were awarded Monday night at a special meeting of the Mundelein Board of Local Improvements. A good deal of the work provided for in the contracts has already been completed through a preliminary arrangement made with property owners benefiting from the improvements, who were anxious to have them in and completed before winter.

Thieves who entered a dry goods store in Mundelein last week were possessed of a discriminating taste in clothing, according to the owner of the store. The loot taken consisted of dress shoes, trousers, neckties, etc. and in each instance the robbers spared the mediocre, taking only the best and most expensive garments. Several other small robberies in the county including one at Half Day and one at Diamond Lake are believed to be the work of the same outfit.

Two youths believed to have been guilty of thefts of auto accessories and parts from cars parked at various places in Waukegan were arrested last week as they were about to mount a stolen tire on one of the rims of their particular "Leaping Lena". They confessed to thefts in four cases and police believe there are about a dozen more of which they have "forgotten".

F. A. Beu, for the past seven years superintendent of the schools at Hebron and well known in educational and athletic circles in this part of the state, has resigned his position there to become an instructor in the Eastern Illinois Teachers' College at Charleston, Ill.

JACK, GENE IN GREATEST TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

Champion and Challenger Hope for Knockout Victory

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE WILL WITNESS BATTLE

It won't be long now. By the time some of our readers pursue these columns the greatest of all heavy weight title bouts, involving the largest purse of all times for a fight in the roped arena, will be history.

Facts of the Fight. The principles in the big fight will be Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, and Jack Dempsey former title holder. The place is Soldier's Field stadium, Chicago; and the time 8:00 o'clock standard time, estimated attendance 150,000; estimated gate $3,000,000; the champion to receive $1,000,000 and the challenger $450,000.

Davey Miller, it seems likely, will be the third man in the ring. Walter Eckersoll will be the time keeper.

The scrap has been given a local aspect, owing to the fact that the champion spent the final weeks of his training period at Cedar Crest Country Club, and many from here expect to attend the big doings at Soldier's Field tonight.

Many others not so fortunate have selected ringside seats in front of the home radio.

Experts Predict Knockout.

While experts disagree at present, each one is predicting a knockout victory for his favorite. The News believes that the champion, on form, will retain his title. Experts agree that the champion is better than ever before in his life and in the pink of condition. It has been shown that Dempsey is not invincible, and it's a clutch that age and high living have not improved him, nor can it be presumed that three or four months of intensive training have made him good enough to win where he once lost. However, a lucky punch from either of Jack Dempsey's fists may turn the tide of the battle, barring adverse breaks in the ring tonight Tunney will in all likelihood retain his title.

ANTIOCH FIRE DEPARTMENT WINS COMMENDATION

The Antioch Volunteer Fire Department has been highly commended by many recently on the speed with which they meet calls for their services. Above the door of the city hall where the fire equipment is kept, is a simple little legend which reads, "Always ready." That the fire department has been successful in living up to this motto has been attested by their quick action in the many fire calls that have come to them in the past few weeks.

Recently a Chicago man, who was formerly connected with the fire department in that city, was near the fire station when the whistle blew. The gentleman was naturally interested, having been once connected with a great fire department. He pulled out his watch to see how quickly a volunteer fire department could get into action. He reported that in thirty seconds the driver was on his seat and the motor running. In a minute and five seconds the fire truck sped out of the building and was off to the scene of the fire in spite of the fact that members have to come from points a block or more away.

The amount of fire loss prevented by the local company in the last six months is remarkable. In one instance a grateful property owner wrote the company as follows:

"I wish in this manner to express my personal thanks to you for the very valuable service that you lately performed in putting out the fire on the Ambrose Lunyard farm. This kind of neighborly service without financial recompense therefor and beyond the limits of the jurisdiction that you might be called upon to protect, is highly praiseworthy."

A substantial donation was enclosed.

Members of the fire department serve without pay and the donations received from grateful property owners, who have contributed sums in appreciation of the service of the department, have been used to buy additional equipment in order that the department could serve the community better.

HOW SWINDLERS MARK THEIR PREY

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

IN the field of fake investments suckers are graded according to their reaction to the appeal of glittering schemes. A name on a sucker list of investors may have a valuation anywhere from zero to $100.

W. R. MOREHOUSE.

If your name is on the list and it is known that you invariably "Investigate Before you Invest," your name is checked to indicate that you are too hard to sell to be worth cultivating further, but if you invest first and investigate afterward, your name is checked to indicate that you are easily swindled and for this reason your name is worth $100,—not to you, but to the owner of the list, for the names of those who invest without investigating are choice prospects and sell readily to promoters.

Certain names on a sucker list are checked to indicate "easy picking," and by this meant that in addition to being ignorant on investments, those checked are not disposed to ask advice of their banker but go ahead and invest in anything from gold bricks to stock in some proposed company for the exploration of diamond fields on Mars.

Those whose names are listed are what might be called marked investors—investors who have been marked for slaughter—investors who have been marked to have their savings taken from them by unwarranted promises of fabulous riches.

If your name is on the sucker list and you are receiving "wild-cat" literature, be on your guard, for not only one but a whole tribe of "wild-cat" promoters are hot on your trail. If you are skeptical as to the extent to which they will go in order to sell you an interest in their fake schemes the following should prove illuminating, as it itemizes the literature and stationery sent to each name on a certain sucker list of investors. This literature was mailed in 91 different mailings. Each person received:

125 envelopes
13 one-page letters
22 two-page letters
6 three-page letters
2 four-page letters
52 fake newspapers containing fake write-ups
33 pieces of highly lurid prospectus material
34 return addressed postal cards
72 subscription blanks

making a total of 363 pieces of literature weighing 11 pounds and costing approximately $50. In addition to this there were numerous telephone calls and personal interviews.

Any person receiving a flood of literature calling attention to certain investment chances has a good reason for watching his step lest he weaken and invest and finally lose his savings. If you are receiving "wild-cat" investment literature it is a good indication that your name is on a sucker list and that it, with other names, is being sold to irresponsible promoters and consequently you may expect to continue to receive literature of the get-rich-quick variety from different sources. If you have ever invested in any one of the investments offered you may rest assured that you are "easy" and it is reasonably certain that as long as you live you will receive bunkum literature.

Some people are so foolish as to feel complimented that so much attention is shown them by men having investments to offer. The facts are, instead of a compliment being paid them, it is a reflection on their ability to judge between a good investment and one of the bunkum variety.

If you want to draw the attention of dealers in sucker lists and of promoters of various kinds, let it be known that you have a savings bank account or good securities and you will be the object of a very vigorous campaign to relieve you of those savings.

It is always well to remember that the irresponsible promoter specializes on swindling savings depositors, exchanging his fake investment for their bank account, which is always worth 100 cents on the dollar.

Of the numerous bait schemes used to swindle the public the trading of equities in real estate is among the most successful from the promoter's standpoint.

From the owner's standpoint a trade usually means getting into deeper water financially—going further into debt.

Here's how it works. If you have an equity in a piece of property, which equity you would like to be relieved of, some promoter will offer to give you credit for your equity on the purchase price of another piece of property or on the purchase of certain hot air stocks.

In the first place, the swindler actually allows you nothing for your equity as he marks up the price of what he is selling you a like amount—with the result that you lose your equity on one hand and get yourself into a less desirable deal on the other.

Proceed slowly, if you are approached with a proposition to trade an equity. It may not be exactly what you prefer, but holding the equity is far ahead of holding the sack after some swindler has dealt with you.

ASK NAME OF TOWNS BE PAINTED ON ROOFS TO GUIDE AVIATORS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—Names of Illinois towns and cities will be carried on the roofs of important buildings in each, serving as a guide to aviators, if the plan suggested to chambers of commerce of the state by Governor Small receives the co-operation expected. Illumination of these markings at night is also recommended.

The suggestion is offered that chambers of commerce in the various towns and cities select one or more of the important buildings in their community, painting on the roof of this the name of the town. A simple block letter in chrome yellow, with a dull background is considered as the most helpful to aviators. It is suggested that roofs selected as the town sign boards be of tile, shingle, tin or other metal. Gravel and pitch roofs should be avoided, if possible.

The Illinois plan is being worked out in connection with the suggestion of Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who announces cooperation is already assured in thirty-five of the states of the union. Towns and cities which are identified according to instructions will be included in a directory to be issued by the department of commerce and given wide distribution.

CHECK SWINDLER AIDED IN CRIME BY FARM ATTIRE

Merchants Are Fooled by Crook Who Looks Like Farm Laborer.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—The northwest has been invaded this summer by one of the most dangerous and expert professional check swindlers who have operated in South Dakota and other states for years. What aids in making him so dangerous in carrying on his check-swindling operations is the fact that he goes about in the attire of a farmhand.

To all intents and purposes he is just a common farmhand, such as are seen by thousands at this season of the year when farmers are commencing to harvest their small grain crops and require extra hands to help take care of their work.

Makes Small Purchases.
When the swindler strikes a town he appears to make a practice of ascertaining the names of farmers living remote from the towns. Then he enters a place of business and makes a purchase of some article costing only a few dollars.

It may be a repair part for a harvesting machine or some other small article needed on the farm, and then tenders in payment a check purport-

Tenders in Payment a Check Purporting to Have Been Signed by a Farmer.

ing to have been signed by a farmer whose name seems familiar to the people in the store. The checks tendered by him always are for a sum much greater than the amount of his purchase.

Fooled by Appearance.
He may tender a $30 or $35, or a $50 check in payment for a purchase amounting to a few dollars, invariably receiving the difference in cash. When the name signed to the check is discovered to be a forgery, the swindler has disappeared. In some of the smaller towns he has victimized different merchants and then made his getaway.

Notwithstanding that the State Bankers' association sent out a warning concerning his operations, he continues to find victims among business men who are deceived by the fact that he presents the appearance of being a real "dirt" farmer. It is estimated that thus far during a period of a few weeks, he has swindled business men out of several thousand dollars.

Jailed for Whipping Daughter; Won't Leave

Lexington, Ky.—Arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, charging him with assault and battery by whipping his sixteen-year-old daughter, Chester Laytard was committed to the Harrison county jail at Cynthiana, Ky., fifty miles north of here, to await examining trial. Laytard is amply able to furnish bond, but declared that he would stay in jail as long as there was one stone upon another, before he would furnish bond in the case.

Laytard claims that his daughter disobeyed him when he told her to milk the cows, and cites the scriptures as authority for enforcing obedience from his daughter. The unique case is causing a decided sensation in Harrison county, where the Laytards reside, and it is expected that the court-house will be packed to its capacity when Laytard is brought to trial.

$1.50 Watch Saves Life of Worker in Sawmill

Alamosa, Colo.—The life of Walter Swope, a carpenter, was saved by a $1.50 watch, when he fell into a rapidly revolving rip-saw.

The saw cut the heavy-cased time-piece which was in a pocket just over Swope's heart, neatly in half, and was driving into his flesh when he recovered his balance and leaped back. He has a slight cut and the halved watch as mementos of the incident.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF SALEM PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Isabella Loescher Passes Away After Illness of Year and Half.

Mrs. Isabella Loescher, 78, a widely known pioneer resident of Kenosha county, died at her home in Salem village on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 13, at 3:30 o'clock following an illness which began when she fell and broke her hip in January, 1926.

Mrs. Loescher was the widow of Mathias Loescher and for more than half a century had been prominent in the community affairs of Salem and vicinity.

The deceased was born in Arbroath, Scotland, October 31, 1849, the daughter of James Minnis and Jane Grozotte. With her parents she came to America in 1852 and the family settled in what was then Southport, now Kenosha.

After a few years here the family moved to the farm in Salem township near Brass Hall corners, which afterward became known as the Minnis homestead.

In 1869 Miss Minnis was united in marriage to Mathias Loescher and they moved to the village of Salem, where for years they conducted a general dry goods store and had the postoffice.

Her husband preceded her in death November 6, 1921. She was the mother of two daughters and one son. The daughters, Jennie and Jessie, still reside at home. The son, Dr. Chas. M. Loescher, died in Chicago, Feb. 13, 1920. One brother, William Minnis, lives in Illinois, Ia.

Mrs. Loescher was a member of the Salem M. E. church in which she was a tireless worker. She took a leading part in all community affairs, and was widely known and admired for her kindly, womanly traits.

Funeral services were conducted at the home in Salem Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Glenn James of Waterloo, Wis., a former M. E. pastor in Salem, officiated. Burial took place in the Salem Mound cemetery.

Mrs. Loescher was a well educated and well read woman, and during her last years she rendered the state historical society great aid in compiling the early history of Kenosha county.

She enjoyed recalling pioneer days and often told how her father went to California during the gold rush, and on coming home he was to be met half way by a brother. The brother set out on the trip but was never heard of afterward.

Which Goes to Prove Discretion Is The Better Part of Valor

How not to enter a heavyweight champion's camp, was the title and text of a brief but potent course of instructions received by a trio of the "lesser gentry" of Chicago last Sunday. The three huskies, equipped with all the implements of warfare in a Chicago, including an arsenal of revolvers and sawed-off shotguns, arrived at the entrance to the camp of the "fighting marine," gay, reckless, slightly intoxicated and ready to challenge the world and take on all comers.

"This is no place for you," remarked an attendant at the gate to one of the trio. Whereupon the bold one stated in no uncertain terms that he planned on entering and would make good his intentions with his fists, if necessary.

"Come on and do it," was the reply. Ensued blows. However many the venturesome one may have seen in front of him, he proved unable to connect with any one on the first blow and when he regained consciousness three hours later he seemed to have lost the ambition.

A second warrior, joining the battle at the same moment, met a similar fate. The third found ready opposition, a gentleman stepping forth from the crowd to accommodate him.

All three proved to be better exponents of the manly art of self defense when in their car than when in combat with the redoubtable gentlemen with whom they had picked the fight, who proved to be none other than Billy Vidabeck and Jack Williams, sparring partners of Gene Tunney.

Spectators, gathered to see the champion work out, and fortunate enough to see this unscheduled preliminary contest, stated that it was worth the price of admission and offered to forfeit ringside seats for another such exhibition.

Racine's new $45,000 lighting system on Main and Sixth streets was turned on for the first time Tuesday evening.

Boy, 13, Proves Self Champion Detective

Detroit, Mich.—Twenty-three errors in just three days is a record any experienced detective, wise in the ways of the lawbreaker, might covet. To a lad of thirteen years who seldom meets violators outside of story books such a record is attained only in the wildest of dreams.

Jack W. Worden, thirteen years old, refused to be daunted by precedent, and in three days caused the arrest and conviction of nineteen Highland Park merchants for selling meat on Sunday and four peddlers for giving short weight.

Jack declares he inherited his sleuthing ability from his father, John W. Worden, who for thirteen years has served the city of Highland Park as a policeman. Worden, now a captain and sealer of weights and measures, gave Jack his chance to search for lawbreakers and Jack made good in short order.

All of the merchants arrested on the evidence gathered by Jack were convicted and fined from $5 to $25 each.

MARRIAGE HOAX ENDS BY SUICIDE

Pitiful Drama of a Wife of a Few Days.

Birmingham, Ala.—In the office of the clerk of the northern division of the United States court of Alabama, at Birmingham, the word "not-prossed" is written after the name of Mrs. Mary Rhodes Elliot on the court docket. In the writing of this word the story of a pitiful drama of a wife of a few days is told.

Mrs. Elliot was arrested some time since, charged with using the United States mails to defraud. Shortly after her arrest she committed suicide.

All the pathos of a blighted life had been hers. Born a hopeless cripple, no man had ever loved her enough to ask her to be his wife.

Then she advertised in a magazine for a husband: "A southern girl with $50,000 needs only to share her wealth to make her happy." To possess the luxurious articles which a girl with this much money would own, she ordered them from a mail-order house.

Donald E. Elliot answered her advertisement and married her, after he visited her at her home at Arab, Ala. Soon afterward she took her own life.

To her husband she left a note of farewell. This is filed in the office of the clerk of the Federal court in Birmingham, along with the indictment against her.

Girl Bride Spurns Mother on Street

Pittman, N. J.—A girl bride of fifteen chose to kick to her husband of a day rather than return to her mother, who met the elopers in a dramatic street scene on Broadway.

The principals are Lawrence Reemel, twenty-seven years old, and his wife, formerly Marion Stowe, fifteen years old, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Marion B. Stowe.

Reemel and the girl tried to elope to Elkton. They failed, but went to Chester town, Md., and had the knot tied.

Mrs. Stowe threatened to have Reemel arrested. She traced the pair to Woodbury. They were not there when Mrs. Stowe arrived and she continued on to Pittman, where the couple came to stay with friends.

"I love you dearly," exclaimed the mother as she embraced her daughter. "Come home with me."

The girl bride wept. She said she loved her mother, but that she loved her husband, too.

"You'll have to make your choice between him and me," declared Mrs. Stowe.

"I'll stay with Lawrence," sobbed the bride.

Swarm of Bees Gives Horse a Merry Chase

Berlin.—A swarm of bees tried to cluster on the tail of a horse harnessed to a light butcher wagon in front of a butcher shop here. The horse proceeded to entertain an excited but helpless mob for at least ten minutes with some samples of wild-west bucking. The frantic animal succeeded in freeing itself of the wagon and galloped madly down the avenue.

Meanwhile the fire brigade was called out. It started in hot pursuit with the hose assiduously spraying the horse's hindquarters whenever the spraying was good. After the chase continued for half a mile the bees were driven away and the completely exhausted horse was corralled.

COAL OPERATORS IN LETTER TO DEALERS PROTEST WAGE RAISE

The following letter has been sent out to the coal dealers of Illinois:

We have found so much misunderstanding as to what the present struggle between Illinois miners and operators is all about that we are prompted to give you the following information as we see it.

In 1922 and again in 1923 the so-called Jacksonville scale with post-war peak wages, together with uncomical and unfair working conditions, was throttled on the union operators of the country by the combined strength of the labor union and political influence. The result has been that mine after mine in the states of Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and in the southwest, have gone over to a non-union basis with a lower production cost, as shown by the fact that the production of coal in this country by union miners has been reduced from seventy per cent in 1921 to thirty per cent in 1926.

You may ask why we do not attempt to go non-union in Illinois. There is a law in this state, passed by the legislature at Springfield, to the effect that no one can work in an Illinois coal mine without a certificate granted by the Illinois Mining Commission, which is dominated by the Illinois Miners' Union. This, together with a natural physical fear on the part of our miners, makes it impractical for any attempt to operate non-union in this state at the present time.

We feel that this struggle on our part today for a lower cost of production is just as much your struggle the sacrifice to you cannot be more than a small part of the cost and sacrifice to ourselves. Our present struggle with labor is to get our production down, so that you can be furnished with cheaper coal and so that we can continue to compete with the coal from non-union fields in our markets. We believe a majority of our miners, if we could deal with them directly, would return to work immediately on a fair and reasonable basis.

We appreciate very deeply the splendid support that has been given the Illinois operators by many of the large users of Illinois coal. Unless we are successful, you will be forced for a long time to come to pay a higher price for non-union coal, and one of the leading industries in the state of Illinois will be, to a great extent destroyed.

I hope you will bear with us and that we may retain your loyalty, which has always been highly appreciated by our Company, and that in this great and, we trust, final struggle, which is for you just as much as for ourselves we may have your support.

The message is signed by the Franklin County Coal Company.

CONTESTS AND BETTER FARMING

By D. H. OTIS
American Bankers Association

Much interest has been aroused over the country by ton pig litter contests. In a number of instances these litters have even exceeded two tons. If brood sows were developed so as to produce ton litters, it would be possible to obtain from each litter at least 1,500 pounds dressed meat, which would make it possible to cut down the number of brood sows from 9,000,000 to 6,000,000, a saving of 3,000,000 head.

Egg production per hen is today exceedingly low, amounting to only 56 eggs per year. Under the direction of the colleges of agriculture there have been carried on tests with demonstration farms which show it is easily possible to have flocks able to produce an average of 135 eggs per hen, or more than double the present production. If this were done throughout the United States, we could dispose with 239,000,000 hens, and still maintain the present production of eggs.

The importance and significance of quality production in our live stock is well illustrated in some figures taken from Wisconsin, where over 5,000 cows belonging to cow testing associations have made definite records. Results are shown in the following:

No. of Cows	Av. Lbs. Butterfat	Total Cost	Profit
1,111.....	281	$94.60	$.33
1,478.....	290	107.00	16.00
1,226.....	283	115.00	32.00
747.....	346	125.00	47.00
233.....	358	132.00	62.00
122.....	446	146.00	78.00

It will be noticed that with each increase of about 50 pounds per cow of butterfat, there is an increase of $15 to $18 per cow in net profit.

The 250 pound cow, which produces $16 profit, represents 6 per cent interest on $266. The 445 pound cow producing $73 profit represents 6 per cent interest on $1,300. In other words, one 445 pound cow will produce as much net profit as five 250 pound cows. Any surplus in dairy products can readily be taken care of by simply eliminating unprofitable or low-producing cows.

NICHOLAS BAKER DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Services Are Held at Old Home in Harper, Iowa.

The death of Nicholas Baker occurred at his late home in Antioch Sept. 8, 1927. Mr. Baker had been in poor health for more than a year and for the last four months was confined to his bed. He was 77 years of age at the time of his death.

He was born in Germany and came to America with his parents when a boy of four. He lived on a farm near Harper, Iowa, until his marriage to Miss Emma Justis, after which he moved to Signourney, Iowa. Later he returned to Harper and was engaged in business there until 19 years ago when he came to Antioch and settled on a farm a mile and a half from town. Later he moved to Antioch.

He is survived by his wife, a son Milo Baker of South Pasadena, Cal., and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Cook of Chicago, and Mrs. Will Girard of Antioch. Funeral services were held at Harper, Iowa, and interment was made there.

Bristol Lad Is Hurt As Driver Disregards Stop-and-Go Signal

Wayne Shumway, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shumway, of Bristol, was seriously injured Monday in an accident in which a car coming out of highway 41 at its intersection with highway 50 disregarded the stop sign and hit the truck in which he was riding with his father. Both vehicles were overturned and the occupants of both cars injured.

The boy was severely cut about the head and face and his skull was fractured. Late reports after an X-ray examination indicated that the child has an even chance of recovery. Mr. Shumway received only minor bruises. The car was demolished.

Appropriation for the hospital is about $50,000 and this will have to be increased by at least $10,000.

Last year's appropriation was $432,000 that of the previous year $440,150 and in 1924 it was $415,400.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—From the comfortable financial situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to poverty through the misfortune of a friend, Jason Brewer, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER IV.—Milman explains to his guests how, chiefly through his belief in Floyd Malet as a great sculptor, he had submitted to a pressing business and kept a detective on his track, learning nothing by which he could be reached legally. Financially impoverished through Raxon's association of the four men—an association outside the law—which shall pull down Raxon and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER V.—Following Milman's disclosures, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Paul Raxon. Milman explains his ideas, admitting he has no real plan to bring about Raxon's downfall, except discreditable details about his personal and business life which he has gleaned from Herman Loddon, Raxon's food and clothing when wine has loosened Loddon's tongue.

When he had lighted a cigarette and was sitting in a big chair in the girl's room, he thought there would be many to offer themselves. She had her mother's slim figure and unforgettable eyes added to the vivacity and cheerfulness of the women of his own family.

"What innocent platters you all were!" She laughed. "Did any of you really think you were deceiving me? Poor old dear, you don't know even the A B C of the thing. I've been living in an atmosphere of petrol—or gasoline as you call it here—for half a year. It fills the air in Europe. People like Sir John Tremhurst, who are the heads of all companies, have political affiliations everywhere. How do I know? I wrote all Sir John's private letters, of which he kept the carbon copies locked up in his safe. I grew to know as much as an out-lander could. That's why it amused me to see you four prattling away like mechanics talking wheels and hand-cups to a steward of the lucky club."

"My dear Nita," he said "was it fair to keep prattling us?"

"Why not? I was certain you knew nothing about oil, and I wanted to make sure the rest didn't. The only thing I could assume was that they were trying to swindle you. It was horrid to imagine poor Mr. Milman as a swindler."

"Most emphatically he is not," her father exclaimed.

"Then what about the others?"

"Needn't Barnes grumble. It was going to be very difficult to put Nita off the scent. She was half Fessenden, and the Fessendons invariably got what they went after. Fortunately she was there in a large measure. The idea of luring Bradney and Malet to try to swindle him brought a smile to Barnes' face. Literally, he had not one cent in the world."

"Nita," he began earnestly, "I put you on your honor not to repeat what I am going to tell you to anyone on any pretext whatsoever."

"All right," she said. "Agreed. Go on."

"I have not a nickel in the world. Bradney and Malet have a hundred dollars apiece, maybe a little more. Peter Milman will have to sell this house and its contents in three months' time. All his money was tied up in International Motors. We are four gentlemen from the chorus of any beggars' opera. It's true we aren't here on any old promotion business, but we have come together for a very serious business. We are trying to stage a come-back."

Nita was silent for a moment. It was not easy to readjust herself.

"What sort of a come-back?"

Her father hesitated a moment.

"I don't think you'd understand. Can I help you?"

"No, Nita. It isn't work for women. You mean there's danger in it?"

He was afraid to say too much. He dreaded to be entrapped by her seemingly innocent questions. He knew she was mentally much quicker than he. The Fessendons again.

"It's not my secret," he returned. "And I ought not to say any more. I can only assure you that Malet and Bradney are splendid fellows, both far superior to me. Very high types. They believe that what we intend to do is the only right and logical thing. You must let it go at that."

"And because there's danger in it you think I'd better keep out of it?"

"Exactly," he exclaimed, gratified at this attitude of obedience.

"Then it is dangerous," she cried. Barnes saw he had made a damaging admission. She had trapped him. "Daddy, what makes you think I'm afraid of anything that's dangerous?"

"Oh, Nita," he said reproachfully, "that's scarcely playing the game to drag information from me which is not mine to give. You are deliberately trying to make me betray my friends."

"What Sort of a Comeback?"

He had risen to his feet. She could see he was not pleased with her.

"Indeed, I'm not," she said earnestly. "Daddy, I came over here because something told me you needed looking after. It isn't that I'm trying to make you betray your friends. I want to be sure that they are being honest with you."

"I have never met squarer men," he answered.

"Then I'm on their side, too. My father and his friends, right or wrong?"

Barnes did not know what to say. But a daughter of his could not be associated with anything irregular. He shook his head.

"I cannot accept your assistance," he told her.

"Very well. I shall tell Mr. Milman I am leaving after luncheon tomorrow. I came over here equipped, specially equipped, for a certain sort of position and I'm going to get it."

"Skilled secretarial workers and stenographers are drugs in the market," he assured her.

"I am not going to be a stenographer," she retorted. "I did that to earn money to come here. I shall take the other position, so you won't have to live on a stranger's charity."

"That is a hard thing to say," he answered, flushing; "and it's not altogether true. Mr. Milman sought me out because he thought I was able to help him. I am not living on charity."

"What is it you are trying to do?" she asked.

"You must not expect me to tell you. My dear, don't be hasty and leave us yet. Promise me that?"

She kissed him good night.

"I won't go yet," she said. "I can't lose you as quickly as that."

When she was alone her face took on a worried aspect. She had suffered many things in order to be with him, and she determined to find out what the mystery was that enveloped this strange household. Although she was not yet twenty-two, she had traveled widely and met innumerable people. In Milman and his associates she recognized men of charm and culture who had made her father their firm admirer. And they were all holding back from her any mention of their real venture. In order to deceive her they had clumsily invented and acted a falsehood. It could only be because they were plotting something of an illegal nature.

They had played on her father's emotions and earned his gratitude and co-operation by a few hundred dollars. For so small a thing it had been possible to enlist his sympathy and aid. They had been clever enough to create the illusion that she was welcome when in truth they might be embarrassed by her presence and already planning to get rid of her. She decided that she would not be driven out. Her father would his daughter even if he did not yet know it. The thought that these dangerous men might be plotting some crime for which Needham Barnes would ultimately bear the blame drove her to action.

Her room was at the rear of the house. Four iron bars protected its windows. Almost five feet below she could see the iron grating which roofed in the Japanese garden. When she leaned down from her open window she could hear, faintly, the sound of voices.

It was about her they were speaking. Barnes had come from her room with the disquieting information that their talk on oil had amused her very much. The news had been a blow.

"Miss Barnes gives me the impression of being a very shrewd young lady," Malet said, "and one not easily deceived. You all know that, when once we start, it will be almost impossible to keep one who is already a little suspicious in ignorance."

"Yes," said Bradney. "I am afraid she's got me there."

"Her godmother lives in Philadelphia," said Barnes. "She can't refuse to take her in for a month or two. She said something about earning her living, but I should prefer her to go to Philadelphia."

"I am afraid she would be a source of danger if she remained," Peter Milman agreed. "Also, it would never do to compromise her in an affair which might end disastrously."

"We've been too busy with theories," said Fleming Bradney when the problem of Nita had been settled. "What we are after should be original disassociations of ideas."

"I can't get that very clearly," said Needham Barnes. "As I see it, all we want from Raxon is a cold million. Half of that goes to Milman and we split the rest."

"Exactly," Bradney returned. "That's the very point. How are we to make him give up a million? I don't know. You don't either. None of us knows. Obviously the thing is to get close to him, into the house for choice."

"He doesn't know me," Milman declared. "But I cannot be seen, because Loddon, who has told me as much under the influence of my port and the belief that I never stir abroad and know nothing of outside affairs, is a frequent guest. The question is, would he recognize Barnes?"

"Certainly not," Barnes said gloomily. "I haven't altered much since that day I threw him from the pier. What about Malet?"

"Probably not," said the sculptor. "In these days I was twenty pounds heavier, wore a mustache, and had a general air of blunder."

"I am the man," Bradney declared. "I don't if he has ever seen me. We know he talked to Malet for some time. It is I who must contrive to get into his house."

"In what capacity?" Milman asked.

"There you have me," the sculptor admitted.

"We are safe to start by assuming," Milman cut in, "that Paul Raxon is always cautious. From the outside his house is impenetrable."

"You mean," Bradney remarked, "that to get in one would have to be vouched for?"

"Undoubtedly," said Peter Milman. "If someone socially prominent took you there, it might be all right. There was one curiously disquieting thing Loddon told me about Raxon. When he has injured a man he expects some retaliation, and takes the precaution of having the injured one watched. We know he dogged Barnes for years. Even now there may be those who know for what purpose we four are gathered here. I am not certain but that Achille speaks English as well as he does French."

The listeners were startled at the sudden change they saw on their host's face. Where he had been merely thoughtful and slightly worried he was now actively alarmed. He was leaning forward examining something on the table before him. They remembered it was the electric dial.

The face of the dial was divided into six parts. These numbered sections would tell Milman on what part of the roof the intruder was. The three, pressing about him, saw that a red light suddenly illuminated the square marked 1. A hand moved very slowly to the square numbered 6.

"That," Milman whispered, looking relieved, "represents the weight. Six pounds means a large and prowling cat."

They heard a sudden exclamation. The weight went up a hundred and twenty pounds. The square numbered 1 was now in darkness and another was illuminated. They could trace the path of the trespasser. He was creeping near them.

"Achille," Milman whispered, "that would be his weight. The six pounds was when he rested a foot on it before putting his whole weight on the grating."

Peter Milman betrayed no nervousness now. Noiselessly he drew the sawed-off shotgun from his place. Then with a touch of a button all lights in the garden were extinguished. In the darkness the shades rolled back. Against the sky, bright with stars, the watchers could see a figure lying above their heads. Another light was switched on which left the group below still in darkness, but showed pitilessly on the trespasser. The gun was already at Milman's shoulder when Needham Barnes made a jump for it and pulled the barrel down.

"My God, Milman!" he cried, white-faced. "It's my girl. It's Nita."

"Ah," said Milman with a curious smile, "so I perceive. A strange position in which to find a guest, is it not?"

"Inexplicable," said Bradney. He cast a suspicious look at Barnes.

"I think," Peter Milman went on, "we should like a talk with Miss Barnes."

"I'll fetch her," Barnes said eagerly. He was confused, ashamed, humiliated.

"You will be kind enough to remind her," said Milman. Barnes saw that he was menaced by that most dreadful of weapons at short range, the sawed-off shotgun. He remembered his fond of buckshot. "I fear I must remind you that we must insist on an explanation from you too. To allow you the opportunity of escape would be most unwise." He raised his voice a little, but he did not take his steady gaze from Barnes' face.

"Miss Barnes," he said, "will you be so kind as to come here at once?"

The girl's voice trembled as she answered. It seemed to them all there was a trace of defiance in her tone.

"I won't be a minute. It's not very comfortable up here."

The shades were drawn again and the lights were shut off. Only Needham Barnes looked from one to the other of the men whose faces had been in the shadow. It seemed incredible that they could suspect him of complicity in this eavesdropping. It was plain enough what her errand was.

"Let me explain," he began.

Peter Milman stopped him with a gesture. "Wait," he commanded. "We shall hear you when your daughter comes."

Barnes sank heavily into a seat. He felt that Bradney and Malet looked upon him as a traitor.

Nita was wearing a blue silk dressing wrap when she came into the Japanese garden. Her bearing was confident and unafraid. She came quickly to her father's side and put an arm about his bowed shoulders.

"Oh, Nita, Nita," he groaned. "How could you do such a dreadful thing as this?"

Malet, watching her closely, saw that she bent upon the sitting men a look which had something of maternal tenderness in it. It seemed strange to the observers that she stood there as though to defend her father from charges of shame or embarrassment.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS IN BRIEF

In order to curb the persistent activities of a small insect known as the alfalfa weevil, which is injurious to alfalfa and other forage crops, in several states outside of Illinois, Gov. Len Small has established an embargo against the infected district to last from April to October, inclusive. The act provides against the importation of the living alfalfa weevil or any stage thereof, of alfalfa hay and other hay of all kinds which has been grown or stored in the infected district. The infected district includes the state of Utah, and part of Idaho, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon and Wyoming.

The Chermus Construction Company of Sioux City, Iowa, has been awarded the contract for paving section 101B of state route 182 in Marion County by the state highway division. The Iowa firm's bid for the work was $20,145.10.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has dismissed, upon motion of the applicant, the application to the Tri-State Bus Company for permission to operate motor buses between Springfield, Rochester, Custer, Breckenridge, Edinburg, Sharpsburg, Taylorville, Vilma, Owanece, Millersville and Pana. The withdrawing party stated that another company had made prior application and was ready to operate.

Cornelius J. Doyle, Springfield, associate general counsel of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, will be one of the chief speakers at the convention of the American Gas Association which will be held in Chicago, October 10 to 14. Mr. Doyle will speak on "The Proper Function of Government." Among the important notables on the program are: J. F. Shaughnessy, president of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners; and Samuel Nasull and Coke Company, of Chicago.

The Division of Highways recently advertised for bids on approximately 80 miles of pavement, 17 miles of grading and a number of bridges. The bids will be opened in Springfield on September 21. Two bridges in Mason county and one in Montgomery county are advertised.

Five state senators, Harold C. Kesinger, of Aurora, Harry G. Wright of DeKalb, Richard R. Meents of Ashkum, George B. Reynolds of Uca and John Denvir, of Chicago, have been appointed by Lieutenant-Governor Fred E. Sterling on the Illinois banking commission, which, under a bill passed by the recent general assembly, is to revise and codify the banking laws of Illinois.

Mosquitoes may soon become extinct in Illinois of present plans of the Illinois Department of Public Health mature. The department is raising gambusia, little pot-bellied minnows that feed mostly on mosquito larvae; they will probably be distributed over the state in the very near future.

Attorney General and Mrs. Oscar E. Carlstrom are the proud parents of a nine-pound baby daughter which was born recently at St. Anthony's hospital at Rock Island.

When the Illinois delegates of the American Legion sailed on the Caronia for the Paris convention they took with them the good wishes and "bon voyage" of Governor Len Small. National Commander Howard P. Savage received the following telegram from the governor just before he sailed:

"The men and women of the American Legion who are about to make their second pilgrimage to France may be assured to the interest and hearty wishes of the people of Illinois. I trust that the legionnaires may have a fine voyage and an enjoyable visit to the scenes of their great victories, and that their present mission to Europe may insure a continuance of the good will which now exists between the United States and our one-time allies and antagonists.

"Bon voyage to the American Legion.

The fame of Illinois bar roads is far reaching indeed. Theodore G. Bilbo, recently elected governor of Mississippi; H. C. Dietzer, State Highway engineer; and X. D. Kramer of McComb, Miss., have been traveling over the entire state studying the Illinois highway system in order to learn at first hand the laws and methods of highway administration which have been evolved and worked out so successfully in this state. It is a significant fact that 80 per cent of all paved roads in the state have been finished during the past seven years under the administration of Governor Len Small.

W. P. Fin, chief entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History survey, states that fears of another wet season such as delayed and prevented wheat seeding in the fall of 1926 should not be allowed to stampede farmers into planting early this fall in an attempt to get around the handicap of bad weather. Too early seeding would pave the way for a strong comeback by the Hessian fly.

Every city must have its gasoline war and Springfield was not to be put off the map for lack of one. Competitive price cutting has occupied the minds of the dispensing firms for the past week. Some independent dealers cut as low as 12 cents exclusive of the State tax. Several distributors predict a sudden rise to normal without warning.

H. R. H. Prince Nicholas of Greece, in his new book, "My Fifty Years," says that in the cathedral at Roskilde, on one of the central pillars, called "the king's column," are marked the heights of several Danish kings and some of their guests. STATE COAL MINERS INCREASE FORCES

Fifty-Six Shipping Mines in Operation During the Month of August 5,601 Miners Employed.

BUT ONE FATAL ACCIDENT REPORTED IN THE STATE

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—Official reports from the shipping coal mines of the state received by Director A. D. Lewis, Department of Mines and Minerals, show there is a steady increase in the number of mines opening. During the month 25 mines joined the 29 in operation during July, making a total of 56 reporting for August.

During the month of April (with a general closing down for negotiations for a new wage scale, but 19 shipping mines were reported in operation in the state. The production of coal for that month was 216,152 tons, with 3,132 miners working an average of 11.7 days during the month.

One additional mine was opened during May, with 60 additional miners employed. The month of June showed 21 mines in the state in operation, but the number of miners employed fell to 2,596. Tonnage was increased to 223,116, with the miners working an average of 11.5 days for the month. During July eight additional mines opened, 422 more miners being given employment, and during the month the tonnage produced was increased to 340,624 with employment furnished for 15 days of the month.

August Report Encouraging.

Report for the month of August shows a total of 56 of the shipping mines of the state in operation, furnishing employment for 5,601 miners an average of 17.8 days during the month. This is practically double the number of miners employed in the state during the month of July, while the average working period was increased practically three days for the month.

St. Clair county holds the lead in the number of mines in operation during the past month, according to the report of Director Lewis. Fourteen mines are in operation in this county, one of which is a strip mine. Fulton county holds second place, with nine mines operating. The report shows the following totals in the other mining counties of the state: Vermilion, 5; Madison, 4; Williamson and Saline, 3 each; Christian, Jackson, Marion, Peoria and Perry, 2 each with one each in Gallatin, Knox, LeSalle, Macoupin, Randolph, Tazewell, White and Woodford counties.

Half Of Mines in Operation.

The report for August shows slightly over one-half of the shipping mines of the state in operation—56 out of a total of 103 as shown as the average for the eight months period. However the number of miners employed for the month is but 20 per cent of the average for the eight months—5,601, as compared to 29,029.

But one fatal accident was reported during the month of August, this occurring in a Williamson county mine. However, total of 129 injuries were suffered among the miner employed, or one accident for each 5,233 tons of coal produced. During the eight months 62 fatal accidents are reported, with 8,661 injuries, or one for each 3,238 tons of coal produced. The tonnage produced as compared to accidents, shown by the report for August sets the low record for the eight months period.

Accidents By Months.

During the month of March fatal accidents numbered 23, with injuries to 2,915 other miners. During that month 224 mines were in operation in the state, with 70,505 miners employed an average of 21.3 days for Nineteen fatal accidents were reported for January; 11 for February, with four each for April and May. No miner in the state was killed in employment during the months of June and July, and 81 suffering injuries during June, and 69 during the month of July.

No miners employed in LaSalle, Peoria, Perry or Williamson counties suffered from injuries during the month of August.
